Part III DETAILED ACTION

Notice to Applicant(s)

1. This application has been examined. Claims 1-24 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 9, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Regelsberger et al (Regelsberger) (U.S. 6,121,986).

With respect to claims 1, 2, 6, 7, 8, 12, 13, 14, 18, 19, 20, and 24, Regelsberger discloses an electrostatographic recording method for printing an image on a receiver (the Abstract, lines 1-3) comprising the steps of: operating a primary charger to establish a uniform primary voltage level on an image recording member (column 2, lines 25-31 and column 3, lines 50-59); developing a control patch on the image recording member (column 2, lines 37-39 and column 4, lines 7-26), measuring density of the control patch to thereby provide a density measurement signal (column 2, lines 37-46 and column 6, lines 2-5); converting the image into a digital bitmap comprised of an array of pixels wherein each pixel is assigned a digital value representing marking information (column 4, lines 27-34); rendering the digital bitmap by defining each pixel as either a background pixel, interior pixel, or an edge pixel and reassigning the digital value of one or more of edge pixels or interior pixels independently and as a function of the density measurement signal (which reads on counting the pixels) (column 17, lines 36-57), and modulating electrostatic charge on the image recording member as a function of the digital bitmap after rendering (column 6, lines 2-12).

With regard to claims 3, 9, 15, and 21, Regelsberger discloses the digital image is a multi-bit image (column 17, lines 50-54).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 4, 5, 10, 11, 16, 17, 22 and 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Regelsberger in view of Takamatsu et al (Takamatsu) (U.S. 6,233,062).

With respect to claims 4, 5, 10, 11, 16, 17, 22, and 23, Regelsberger differs from claims 4, 5, 10, 11, 16, 17, 22, and 23 in that he does not clearly disclose increasing or decreasing the value of edge pixels. Takamatsu discloses an image processing device wherein the values of the edge pixels are increased or decreased (column 13, line 66 to column 14, line 7). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Regelsberger wherein the value of edge pixels are increased or decreased. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified Regelsberger by the teaching of Takamatsu in order to improve the characteristics of the output image.
